

Apple Pro Training Series: OS X Support Essentials 10.9
Updates & Errata

Apple Pro Training Series: OS X Support Essentials 10.9
By Kevin M. White and Gordon Davisson
ISBN-13: 978-0-321-96355-0
First print run
March 25, 2014

LESSON 20:

Reference 20.3 Auto Save and Versions, Section Title: Auto Save and Versions Architecture

In the print or PDF version of this book; page 497; paragraph three; last sentence; ~~delete the following sentence entirely:~~

Finally, in order to avoid unintentional changes, older documents are automatically locked; but as you'll see later, the user can easily manage this behavior as well.

In the print or PDF version of this book; page 497; paragraph four; the fourth sentence currently reads:

Updated applications still feature File > Save for saving a document the first time, but upon subsequent usage the behavior of this menu option changes to saving a version of the document.

The fourth sentence should read:

Updated applications still feature File > Save for saving a document.

Reference 20.3 Auto Save and Versions, Section Title: Auto Save

In the print or PDF version of this book; page 498; last paragraph; the first sentence currently reads:

By default, if you choose to close the document window or application, the system prompts you to save the document.

The first sentence should read:

By default, if you choose to close an Auto Save-enabled document window or application, the system does not prompt you to save the document unless you enable "Close windows when quitting an application" in General Preferences.

LESSON 27:

Reference 27.1 Peripheral Technologies, Section Title: Thunderbolt

In the print or PDF version of this book; page 779; first paragraph; the third sentence currently reads:

Each Thunderbolt port on a Mac system supports up to seven devices in a daisy-chain configuration.

The third sentence should read:

Each Thunderbolt port on a Mac system supports up to six devices in a daisy-chain configuration.

Appendix A: Lesson Review Questions and Answers

Lesson 19 Review Application Installation; Section title: Answers

(Appendix is included in the back of the eBook formats and is available as an online download for the print book.)

Answer 1 currently reads:

1. The requirements to purchase items from the Mac App Store are OS X v10.6.6 or later, an Apple ID, an Internet connection, and authorization as a local administrator.

Answer 1 should read:

1. The requirements to purchase items from the Mac App Store are OS X v10.6.6 or later, an Apple ID, and an Internet connection.